BOREAL BLAST
IS MERCILESS*Many Persons Frozen to Death
in Middle West*COLD AND SNOW CAUSE GREAT SUFFERING

Deaths are reported in nearly every state in the middle west as a result of the extreme cold weather and no relief is in sight.

The cold wave left five persons frozen to death in Kansas, two in Michigan, three in Minnesota, four in Wisconsin and one in Illinois.

During the past three days, twenty persons have been frozen to death in the region swept by the cold wave.

The east is also suffering from a blizzard and intense cold.

In the sweep over the country, the Arctic visitor made itself felt particularly in the Great Lakes region and nearly all points in Wisconsin, Minnesota, the Dakotas, Northern Iowa, the Michigan peninsula, northern Illinois and northern Indiana report below zero. Michigan and Wisconsin points experienced as low as 14 below while Moorhead, Minn., and Devil's Lake reported 24 below. Duluth also was in that class.

Only two points in Canada were colder—Winnipeg with 30 below and Qu'Appell with 26 below. Montreal, for the first time reported zero being in the same class with Concordia, Kan.; Davenport, Ia., and Rapid City S. D.

That the wintry blasts were penetrating the south was shown by temperature of 6 above at Amarillo, Tex.; 30 above at Atlanta, 40 above at New Orleans, and 26 above at Shreveport, La. Tampa, Fla., with 62 above was the warmest spot. Los Angeles reported 50 above.

Dispatches to board of trade men announced heavy losses of live stock in the west and southwest because of the intense cold.

Cold and snow also interfered seriously with railway operation, and many smaller places throughout the west and northwest ran short of food and fuel.

Schools were closed at various Kansas points because the building could not be heated and trains were abandoned in Colorado because of snow blockades.

Snow fell here to a depth of 7 inches Friday night and Saturday, and the thermometer registered 16 1-2 degrees below zero Sunday morning. There was a decided change in temperature by Monday morning, and a fine drizzling rain set in. No damage to live stock has been reported in this vicinity up to this time.

Charles Durham, Livingston, Ill., has succeeded in finding a positive cure for bed wetting. "My little boy wet the bed every night clear through the floor. I tried several kinds of kidney medicine and I was in the drug store looking for something different to help him when I heard of Foley's Kidney Pills. After he had taken them two days we could see a change and when he had taken two thirds of a bottle he was cured. That is about six weeks ago and he has not wet in bed since."

Calisthenics.
"Those Latin races use a great many gestures when they talk." "Yes," replied the busy man; "and it's a mighty good idea. It enables you to take your physical culture right along with your ordinary exercise."

In Right Places.
A witty woman once said that house-keeping consists in taking things out and putting them back. One might elaborate the statement by saying that good housekeeping consists in getting the things back in the right places, and easy housekeeping consists in having places enough for the things.

In every home where their are children is a bottle of WHITE'S CREAM VERMIFUGE. It destroys worms and acts as a tonic in the disturbed system. Price 25c. per bottle. Sold by St. Bernard Mining Co. Incorporated, Drug Department.

BABY BROUGHT BACK TO LIFE*Found in Wicker Basket After It Had Been Registered As Dead

Cincinnati, O., Jan. 6.—Lying for three hours in a wicker basket in which it was to be taken to the city hospital morgue, the tiny form of an infant but nine days old attracted, through some unknown power, the attention of one of the internes at the institution, and from a supposedly lifeless form was brought back to life.

Physicians at the hospital registered the infant, a son, born to a young woman, as present an inmate of the institution, as dead. The young interne, passing through the ward, stopped to look at the little one, when he mechanically placed his hand over the child's heart. He was startled, for he noticed a throb of the heart. Then applying the stethoscope the faint action of that organ grew more pronounced. Lifting the infant from its cramped quarters in the basket he called a nurse and placed the baby in bed. Pressing his own lips to those of the baby, he breathed into its mouth, exhaling and inhaling naturally. After an hour's work his efforts of resuscitation proved successful, for the little one let out its first yell.

The infant was then placed in care of the mother, who was overcome with happiness in having restored to her the offspring she thought dead.

Foley's Kidney Pills
always give satisfaction because they always do the work. J. T. Shelnut, Bremen, Ga., says: "I have used Foley's Kidney Pills with great satisfaction and found more relief from their use than from any other kidney medicine, and I've tried all most all kinds. I can cheerfully recommend them to all sufferers for kidney and bladder trouble." Foley's Kidney Pills will cure any case of kidney or bladder trouble not beyond the reach of medicine. No medicine can do more.

IS ARRESTED*Alleged Swindler Captured At Glasgow
Said to Have "Worked" Many Towns

Glasgow, Ky., Jan. 6.—A man giving his name as J. W. Bewley, and claiming his home as Knoxville, Tenn., was arrested here on a complaint from Hopkinsville, Ky., of having obtained money under false pretense by defrauding a number of business men in that town. It seems that Bewley went to that town some time in October and after presenting a letter of recommendation alleged to come from the president of a college there, solicited advertisements on a calendar, selling twenty-four spaces at something like $5 per space. The people became suspicious when the goods failed to come and an investigation was started which revealed the fact that there was no one known in Knoxville by the name of Bewley, and the firm he was supposed to be representing, F. R. Sherman & Co., 18 Gay street, Knoxville, Tenn., was also a fake.

Bewley's undoing came about in an unexpected and an unusual manner. Paul Winn, a merchant at Hopkinsville, is visiting his parents here, and while talking with a number of friends he saw Bewley pass along the street and had him arrested. It is believed that he has worked several towns in Kentucky and Tennessee. He is a man of medium height, well dressed and has the appearance of being well educated.

Mothers Might Learn Antidotes.
A young mother, during the infancy of her first born, set herself the task of committing to memory antidotes for the commonest poisons known, especially those that it might be possible for children to come into contact with. In addition to this, she memorized methods of aiding drowning and injured persons. In fact, learned sort of a "first aid to the injured" set of rules. Would not this be an excellent plan for all mothers?—Good Housekeeping Magazine.

Every Dollar of an Ad Reader's Money is Above Par

Frequently Its Buying Power is Actually Doubled

¶ Your dollars vary in value as they vary in purchasing power. The man or woman who studies advertisements is able, frequently, to make one dollar do the usual work of two. ¶ And the experienced reader of advertisements will always make a dollar command a premium—make it buy more than a dollar's worth, as figured on "ruling prices" of things. ¶ How much "above par" are the dollars in your pocket worth? It will depend on how closely you study the buying opportunities outlined in the store ads

The Crooked Tree.
Childish impressions are as strong as, frequently, mistaken. A thoughtful child, hearing someone wonder why a certain tree in the garden was so crooked, replied, remembering the proverb about "As the twig is bent, the tree is inclined": "I suppose somebody must have stepped on it when it was little."

Busy Embroiderers.
As early as 1773 over 6,000 women were engaged in stitching the fine embroideries which made St. Gall famous even in those early days. The number had increased by the beginning of 1806 to 26,563, the industry having extended to Baden, Wurtemberg, Bavaria, western Austria and all the country about Lake Constance.

Itching, skin eruptions, disfigure, annoy, drive wild. Doan's Ointment brings quick and lasting cures. Fifty cents at any drug.

Right Type of Letters.
The letters in early manuscripts were the same as that of those used on the earlier metal plates and wax tablets. All letters were capitals. Minuscule, or small lettering, as opposed to the majuscule, was invented in the seventh century.

One Risk Sufficient.
As—if you had to live your life over again would you marry the same woman? Parks—You just bet I would. I know what she is, and women are too uncertain for me to experiment with another one.

You Can Eat Anything.
Eat what your stomach craves without the slightest fear of indigestion, which is an awful feeling. You will not be bothered with Sour Stomach, Heartburn, Nausea, Bad Breath or Heavy Feeling if you will take one dose of Digestase. It relieves and cures as if by Magic. Pleasant as Candy. Relief in one minute. Get a 50c bottle from the drug department of the St. Bernard Mining Company, Incorporated.

Showy Footwear in Russia.
All Russians have a weakness for handsome footwear, and the result is that there are more showy boots worn in the czar's empire than anywhere else on earth. This preference extends to the women as well as the men.

Medicines that aid nature are always most effectual. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy acts on this plan. It allays the cough, relieves the lungs, opens the secretions and aids nature in restoring the system to a healthy condition. Thousands have testified to its superior excellence. Sold by all dealers.

What a "Twister" is.
In life insurance parlance the "twister" is that smooth-tongued emissary who goes about trying to persuade you to surrender your policy in a company with which you are perfectly content, on the ground that the usual company which he represents will surely yield better results.

Mistaken Diagnosis-Doctors Guess Wrong Again

About five years ago I wrote to you I had been a terrible sufferer from kidney and bladder troubles, and that my physician informed me that my left kidney was in such condition that there was no hope for my recovery. I was advised to try your Swamp-Root as a last resort, and after taking four fifty-cent size bottles, I passed a gravel stone which weighed ten grains. I afterwards forwarded you this gravel stone. Have had no return of any trouble since and cannot say too much in much in favor of your wonderful preparation, Swamp-Root, which cures, after physicians fail.

Very truly yours,
F. H. HORNE,
Route 3, Box 30, Roseboro, N. C.
Personally appeared before me, this 31st day of July, 1911, F. H. HORNE, who subscribed the above statement and make oath that the same is true in substance and in fact.

A Girl's Wild Midnight Ride

Toward people of a fearful forest fire in the Catskills a young girl road-horseback at midnight and saved many lives. Her deed was glorious, but lives are often saved by Dr. King's New Discovery. In curing lung trouble, coughs and colds, which might have ended in consumption or pneumonia. "It cured me of a dreadful cough and lung disease," writes W. B. Foster, son, Wellington, Tenn., "after four in our family had died with consumption, and I gained 67 pounds." Nothing so sure and safe for all throat and lung trouble. Price 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free. Guaranteed by all druggists.

Teaching Tenderness.
A tender parent has been discovered in New York. Having been warned that the milk he sold to others and fed to his own babe was slowly killing the latter, he promptly took an expensive bottled milk for the child, though he cheerfully continued to supply the infants of his poorer neighbors with the condemned stock.

For years J. S. Donahue, So. Haven, Mich., a civil war captain, as a lighthouse keeper, averted awful wrecks, but a queer fact, he might have been a wreck himself, if Electric Bitters had not prevented. For dyspepsia, indigestion, all stomach, liver and kidney troubles, they're without equal. Try them. Only 50c at all druggists."

THE ROAD TO THE RURAL SCHOOL

Address Delivered by Paul M. Moore Before the Mid-Winter Meeting of the Kentucky Press Association at Louisville, Ky., December 28, 1911

"The Road to the Rural School"

started way back yonder when I was a small boy attending a country "district school" in the heart of what is now a thriving Western Kentucky city, in a one-room building where the one-only teacher consumed the hours from seven to twelve and from one to five, extracting oral work from the "scholars" with book and with rod. The town yielded parts of its area to some three country districts, but that was the only schoolhouse it boasted within its boundaries at that time or for many years after. The road, for some of you, started from the genuine, and far-famed log schoolhouse—but no better! I affirm, that my one-room brick—and, I'll wager, not taught nearly so many hours a week. The real road to the real "Rural School" started, back in the times I am talking about, from the door of the poor and weak and blind "district school", taught for three to five months in the year by "His Sister or his Cousin or his Aunt". And the pity of it is that this road hasn't gone anywhere much yet in the State of Kentucky. But now it's getting a real start and wise engineers and strong builders on the Educational Good Roads of Kentucky have been in action for the past few years and are already getting up the profile drawings and marking out the course of the real road to the sure-enough "Rural School" of the future, and have even built a mile or two here and there. And you and I want to get busy! I don't mean the kind of "busy" we need to get on our dirt roads by the old system of "warning in the hands"—and everyone a boss—to make the road look like an earthquake in a cornfield. There is to be no such alleged work on this new ROAD of ours that is planning! And the fellow who gets in the way like that is going to get flattened out by the PROGRESS STEAM ROLLER. Trouble with such people is they haven't grit enough in them to make even good road material, and would only soil the surface and leave a soft spot, or, at best, their lazy frames yield a quantum of grease as a dust killer. What you and I need to do, and must do, is to use our printers ink so vigorously and so wisely and so constantly as to influence right that part of our constituency that even yet insist upon "working" this "Road to the Rural School" with the one-horse plow and long-handled shovel. We've literally got to get them off the road and keep them off! And we've got to persuade them and cajole them and even bluff them into yielding the management of this job to qualified engineers and experts. And we've got to induce them to accept the truth that when these experts get through and their plans are finally and fully executed, these one-horse-plow fellows will find running by their very doors a pleasant and beautiful and perfect highway to the "Rural School" and to his own best future good and prosperity. Remember, this is the road to education I am talking about and not dirt or stone. Perhaps we may persuade him that by working a little less now and then to help this good thing along, his own property will all about upon this splendid "good road" and perhaps will be, by that good time, so enhanced in value that he may ride in his own automobile to the County Seat and take his family to every circus that comes to town. It's going to take some ingenuity to do all this persuading, but it's up to us, and we can't hope to get over this road ourselves without taking the other fellow along with us. Here, to my mind, better than anywhere else, and with better and more tangible results, the reputed "power of the press" can be wielded for the supreme betterment of present and future Kentuckians.

THERE IS NEED OF MUCH PUBLICITY.

There are, doubtless, many County Boards of Education in Kentucky that have not learned half their powers and duties under the present school law and do not at all realize what wide discretion and grave responsibility is put upon them by this law; what big and pregnant things they have the power to do. Every local newspaper in Kentucky ought to have its reporter attend the periodic meetings of its County Board of Education, and ought to give its proceedings the fullest publicity, at the same time throwing upon such proceedings such side lights of school law understanding as will interpret to the average reader the real meaning of their acts and show their progressive-ness—or the reverse. The public servant, on the School Board as elsewhere, whose acts are kept in the lime-light by an enlightened press is apt to be a better public servant—and, on the School Board, he usually wants to be a good public servant—and even the blindest will after a while come to see. If any of you think your public will not be interested in these reports that you will publish, let him try the experiment. I believe you will find that your readers will not be more greatly interested in any other news you can give them. Feature the monthly meetings of the County Board of Education. Publicity by press writers who know the powers and duties of the Board will be a safeguard, and enlightened comment a source of strength and help to the Board; will serve to regulate any errors or any narrowness; put board members on their best behavior toward this movement, which is attracting the real interest of a rapidly increasing number of people, and make them wake up and do their best. We can devote our thought and time and printers ink to no other thing of so great importance to this and future generations of Kentuckians.

We know what publicity means. County Boards of Education need it, and this is bringing the thing right down to your own field, under your very nose, where you can work and do good. Not the hostile kind of publicity, unless you have a mean and stingy Board that will do nothing progressive, but the enlightened and helpful variety of publicity. But, whatever happens, let your people know what is doing and the best that might be done. Impress upon them a broad, progressive view, and a liberal, intelligent interpretation of the present law of our "Common Schools" and our free "County High Schools".

I do not wish to enter into many details, but there are two things I would like especially to enlist your interest in that are practical and close at home. One is the extension of the County High School idea until all the children can get into such a school. The other is the elimination of all short-term district schools in so-called "pauper districts" by extension of the term to the full six months of the legal "Common School". This latter object can be attained by supplementing teachers' salaries out of the county school levy, and is easily arranged, though no doubt it has been overlooked in many parts of the state.

The extension of the County High Schools to the point of real

Getting Acquainted

When Henderson stepped into the big dining room of the golf club, which had been converted into a dancing hall for the occasion, and saw Florence Tracy standing opposite the door he made up his mind that he wanted to know her. He put forth a big muscular hand and plucked by the sleeve the first man that passed him.

"Introduce me to the girl over there, talking to Matthews," he commanded. "Don't know her," responded the other man. He turned and stared at the girl for a moment. "A good deal of a peach," he commented, "but I never saw her before. Sorry I can't oblige you." And he dashed off in pursuit of his own partner.

The next half hour Henderson passed looking for some one who would present him to the girl, but none of his acquaintances seemed to know her. Finally, however, he came upon Filkins, who was popularly supposed to know everybody in the world. "Say, Filkins," he said, "if you don't know the girl in white who has just been dancing with Trenton I want you to make it your business to get to know her so that you can introduce me."

Henderson eagerly followed. In Filkins' wake, with his eyes fixed on the willowy creature who was the object of his admiration. Thus he just escaped climbing up Filkins' broad back when that unreliable person stopped in front of a pudgy blond creature and with a beaming smile introduced Henderson.

"That wasn't the girl I wanted to meet!" he exploded to Filkins a few minutes later. "Nice enough girl, I don't doubt, but not the one. The girl I want to know is the tall girl who stepped out on to the veranda just as you turned around then. Now, do you know her?"

Filkins shook his head. "No, I don't," he admitted. "But I think she's Mrs. Peterson's sister and is visiting her. I'll try to find out for you."

"No, I'll do my own pioneering, thanks," said Henderson.

Three times during the course of the evening he discovered men who knew the young woman in question, and three times did he and the mutual acquaintance wander about vainly in search of her. As the dancers were beginning to leave, Filkins rushed up to Henderson.

"I've met her and danced with her, and she is a peach," he announced. "You just wait here half a second and I'll cut her out of the bunch as she comes down and introduce you."

Once more Henderson waited patiently but vainly. When all the guests had departed Filkins gave a sigh of mingled weariness and disappointment. "Honest, old man," he said, "I didn't mean to give you the wrong steer, but she must have gone out the other way."

Henderson from that moment set his teeth and made up his mind that he would achieve Florence Tracy's acquaintance even though the heavens fell. With this purpose in view he attended three lawn parties—festivities which he loathed—and a church bazaar. In vain.

One evening on his way home he saw her sitting in the front of the car with a girl whom he had once known, but never liked, and had, consistently avoided for years. Wandering past them with a bland, slightly embarrassed but wholly humble and propitiatory smile upon his face, he was met with such an icy stare from the girl he had once known that he hastily botted into the forward car without attempting to renew the acquaintance.

However, several days later, when he had almost given up hope of accomplishing his object, he woke from a surreptitious nap on the evening train just as it was pulling into the station. In spite of the fact that his vision was somewhat blurred with sleep he suddenly became aware that Miss Tracy had just stepped into the aisle from a seat about half-way down the car.

Trying to look as much as possible like a man who has just been sitting with his eyes closed to rest them, he stumbled into the aisle. Then he glanced back as he did so, actuated by the suburbanite's instinct for gathering up stray packages. In the rack just above the seat which Miss Tracy had been occupying his eyes fell upon a small, dainty parcel. Instantly he was wide awake.

He dashed back to the seat, secured the parcel and then dropped off the platform of the car just as the train was pulling out of the station. Determined to see the thing through, he hailed the village taxicab and ordered the driver to follow the automobile which was carrying Miss Tracy swiftly out of sight.

As Miss Tracy stepped out of the car in front of her sister's house Henderson, hat in one hand and parcel in the other, stepped out of the taxicab. Somewhat heated but perfectly genuine, he advanced toward her and held out his bedraggled offering.

"If I am not mistaken," he said suavely, "you left this in the train."

Miss Tracy looked at him in surprise. Then her eyes fell to the parcel. She half advanced her hand as if to take it, but withdrew it again.

"It was good of you to bring it," she said hesitatingly, "but you are mistaken. It isn't mine. Why did you think it was?"

Henderson laughed shamefacedly. "I must have wanted it to be yours." Then the whole story of his efforts to get acquainted with her, came out.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Address F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O. ## DELICATE CHILDREN

Made Strong by Vinol

"I wish I could induce every mother who has a delicate, sickly child, to try your delicious cod liver iron tonic, Vinol."

"It restored our little daughter to health and strength after everything else had failed. It tastes so good she loved to take it—not a bit of cod liver oil taste.—Mrs. C. W. Stump, Canton, Ohio."

The reason Vinol is so successful in building up puny, delicate, ailing children, is because it is a combination of the two most world-famed tonics—the medicinal body-building elements of cod liver oil, aided by the blood-making and strength-creating properties of tonic iron.

If we can induce you to try a bottle of Vinol as a body-builder and strength-creator for your child, and you do not find it is all we claim, we will return your money on demand.

Good Hint.

Those who keep up a regular correspondence with several friends will find it a good plan to keep envelopes addressed to each of them in some convenient place, and into these to slip newspaper cuttings and other things which will interest each particular correspondent. When the time comes to write, it will be

Easy Method of Making Salt.

The process of making salt at the springs in Salinas, Mexico, is very simple. The water, which contains 4 to 7 per cent. salt, is pumped into tanks; it is then evaporated to 25 to 28 per cent., beginning to crystallize at 18 per cent. The water is then drained off and the salt swept out.

We are prepared to do all kinds of cleaning, pressing and altering. A lady has charge of the lady's department,

Years of successful experience have taught us the lesson of giving perfect satisfaction. We have a boy at your serv-

Get Close to Nature.

Says a philosopher: "Observe nature. When you come to a barnyard go in and see the pigs and fowls and the cows. Climb a fence now and then and go into the fields and look at the crops or the cattle. I know of no place where there is more philosophy than in a barnyard. You can learn much from animals. Within their circle they know much more than we do."

The Danger of La Grippe!

Is it a tendency to pneumonia?
To cure you, a gripe coughs take Foley's Honey and Tar Compound.
It. E. Fisher, Washington, Kan., says: "I was troubled with a severe attack of la grippe and nothing I used did me any good and was threatened with pneumonia. A friend advised me to use Foley's Honey and Tar Compound and I got some at once. I was relieved from the very first. By the time I had taken three bottles my la grippe was gone. I believe Foley's Honey and Tar Compound to be the best medicine I ever used and always keep a bottle with me."

Look to the Future.

Finish every day and be done with it. You have done what you could.
Some blunders and absurdities no doubt crept in; forget them as soon as you can, tomorrow is the new day; begin it well and serenely, with too high a spirit to be cumbered by the past.—Emerson.

Home Defined.

Home is a magic word, and we seldom try to analyze it. A little Polish girl in a public school was asked recently to write a definition of "home."
"A home," she wrote, "is where people live, and where a man or somebody comes home and finds people there, and then eats!"

Burden-Sharing a Duty.
It is the duty of each generation to bear its own burden.

Platinum.

Referring to platinum, books say that "this metal has never yet been successfully deposited as a protecting coating to other metals" and add "the metal to be plated must be coppered."

Certain of Success.
I mean to make myself a man, and if I succeed in that I shall succeed in everything.—Garfield.

Very Serious

It is a very serious matter to ask for one medicine and have the wrong one given you. For this reason we urge you in buying to be careful to get the genuine—

The reputation of this old, reliable medicine, for constipation, inother medicines. It is better than others, or it would not be the fa-

year has expired. The remedy for this would be to select a good man from your division to be a member of the County Board, and then keep him there for a term of years, or during good behavior.

I must say a word more about consolidation and local aid. I have been for years a school trustee at Earlington and now there are thirteen hundred pupil-children in my sub-district. We are operating under the Common School Law, but we have developed, through liberal local aid, two excellent nine months graded schools one for white children with eight teachers, and one for colored children with six teachers, each with good high school classes also, and each in splendid, modern school buildings with the best equipments; the two plants representing a present value of more than $80,000. And so this illustrates the point, and these conditions at Earlington, where we are under the Common School Law, marks the line of difference between the "Common School", supported wholly by the general school fund, and the "Common School" whose support is liberally supplemented by intelligent local aid, whether by local tax or by gifts, or by both. And this affords a vital object lesson that proves with emphasis the necessity of local aid for our common schools. But for local aid we would have had these twenty odd years past only the five or six months common school, crowded into cheap and unhealthy and inadequate quarters. Our "Rural Schools" must have consolidation and concentration, real buildings worthy of being the community centers, and corps of real teachers, with transportation provided for children to and from school. This cannot be without increased local taxation. The other alternative is to revert to the old plan of small, pauper districts, with few pupils, a low grade teacher and the kind of out-of-date building and outfit, from which our Road started many years ago. Until the consolidation plan prevails, with funds for buildings, maintenance and transportation, County Boards will have to do the best they can in sparsely settled districts—and a very poor best it will be. There is no middle ground. In my County this year we divided a district containing 42 square miles, 7 miles one way and 6 the other, in which were children as old as eleven years, who had never seen inside a school house, because the district school was seven miles from them as the crow flies, on the further edge of the district and water intervened. There are in Kentucky no doubt many country schools taught for periods of but 2 to 4 months each year, instead of the six months of the legal "Common Schools." These are arranged under a plan that, for cheapness and expediency combines under one teacher two "pauper districts", teaching say 2 months in one of the school houses and 4 months in the other; giving the while the impossible invitation to all pupils in the combined district to attend each of the schools for the whole time taught. These are distressing evils and inequalities in our

Give - the - Sick - Room - Attention

There's always a demand for sick-room supplies—while the home, bathroom, nursery all need attention. A good hot water bottle is a daily necessity.

Our rubber goods—fountain syringes, hot water bags, and such, are quality goods; nothing better made. There's a big stock to choose from—we carry a full line. We also carry a big line of sickroom supplies, and when such are needed this is the store to come to first for high class and fair cost.

Common School System. If we can persuade our people to tax themselves liberally, these evils can speedily be cured through the proposed plan of consolidated "Rural Schools".

And I repeat—the Big Job of the Kentucky Press is to educate the people to tax themselves to do these big things. In this we may all be—must all be builders on "The Real Road to the Sure-Enough Rural Schools in Kentucky."

I hold in my hand a press report of recommendations for improvements in Kentucky School Laws, made recently by the Legislative Committee of the Kentucky Educational Association. Of chief importance in these recommendations are the proposals to enable the County to vote bonds for building and equipping school houses, and to give the County Board of Education power to lay off a bonndry including a number of sub-districts and submit to the voters of that boundary the proposition of a tax sufficient to consolidate and centralize the schools within that boundary. If it were our custom to take such action on any question outside of strictly newspaper affairs. I would like very much for this Association to go on record with a resolution approving at least this much of the recommendations to the Legislature from the Kentucky Educational Association. But you will advocate these good things and work for them, and thus add miles to our "Rural School Roads."

ENLIST LEGISLATORS
(From the Courier-Journal)

"An argument in favor of good roads and improvement of educational facilities in Kentucky, made by Paul M. Moore, of the Earlington Bee, was the first paper on the morning programme Mr. Moore's topic was "The Road to the Rural Schools." Following the reading of the paper someone called attention to the fact that some of those present were members of the General Assembly, and suggested that it would be a good thing to get an expression of their views on these topics. Green Keller, of Carlisle; Claude M. Terrell, of Bedford; Wallace Brown, of Nelson County and Benjamin E. Niles, of Henderson, in turn responded to the invitation, and assured the editors of their hearty support at the next session of the Legislature of bills embodying these and other reforms advocated by the Association."

Japanese Shun Factory Life. Of the Japanese factory laborer the average "work life" is short, very few being able to last longer than five years. Hence the rural population hesitates to migrate to the city when country employment is abundant.

Napoleon's Capricious Appetite. Napoleon had a penchant for roast fowls, cutlets and smoking coffee. He ate at odd times, and only when he felt hungry, driving his cooks to distraction because when he called for food it had to be ready for him almost on the instant, or at least as soon as the table could be laid.

By the Evidence. Donald, aged 4, had been to school with an older friend and had seen the teacher put a star on the cards of each child whose conduct had been good. That evening while walking out with his parents, he remarked after looking at the starry sky, "There've been lots of good boys today."

Rivalling. "Why do so many musicians speak disparagingly of instruments that play mechanically?" "I don't know," replied the gentleman with Circassian hair. "But I don't see why we should be more generous toward a mechanical instrument than we are toward each other."
